

SYMPOSIUM: The Dilemma of Wild Horses and What to do with Them

Sponsored by the Journal of Animal and Natural Resource Law

The Journal brought together leaders in the academic, legal, and public policy communities to provide a guided reflection on the many dilemmas presented by wild horses, from adoptions to wild horses' ecological role to inadequate enforcement of humane laws.

SYMPOSIUM: Trafficking: Illegal Markets and the Many Different Exchanges

Sponsored by the International Law Review

The Symposium brought in experts from around the country to share their perspectives on the sale and movement of human beings and products through a wide range of illegal markets. While sex trafficking is often top-of-mind from a human rights perspective, the International Law Review's event took a broader approach, exploring the far-reaching implications of a wide range of secret (and profitable) illicit economies.

“People have died from counterfeit products . . . and they often have no idea where they have come from.”

— Kari Kammel
Assistant Director of Education and Outreach Center for Anti-Counterfeiting and Product Protection

Presenters discussed:

- Human commodification, including sex and labor trafficking
- Wildlife poaching and selling
- Product counterfeiting
- Weapon trafficking
- Drug trafficking and terrorism

ALUMNI GATHERING: Chicago Reception

Graduates came together in the heart of the city on April 3 to network and relax with their fellow Spartan lawyers. Colleen Gomos, '07, hosted the event at Seyfarth Shaw, where she is a partner.

ALUMNI GATHERING: Young Alumni Reception

Our recent graduates gathered at the Atwater Brewery in Detroit on May 16 to welcome members of the Class of '19 into the MSU Law alumni family! They were joined by Professor Phil Pucillo.

“I have a lot to say, and I have a lot of ideas. But it’s important for me to listen to the voices of the people I’m working with so that they know they’ve been heard.”

— Elizabeth Clement, '02
Michigan Supreme Court Justice

LECTURE SERIES: Michigan Leadership Initiative

The inaugural year of the Michigan Leadership Initiative (MLI) concluded with a keynote address from Michigan Supreme Court Justice Elizabeth Clement, '02, in which she emphasized the centrality of listening as a leadership trait. Her speech was followed by a networking reception for current and future MLI students, and featured an impromptu appearance by local legend Tom Izzo, the head coach of MSU men’s basketball.

Other 2018-19 MLI presenters included:

Dennis Archer, '70	R. Amani Smathers, '13
Erin Diaz, '15	Katherine Spicer, '10
Lawrence Oliver, '91
